

Sustainable Groundwater Management Act (SGMA) Farmer Engagement Survey

As a key stakeholder, your participation in the Sustainable Groundwater Management Act (SGMA) is critical to ensure your concerns are heard as projects and programs are being developed to support groundwater sustainability.

To better understand how the California State University system can provide SGMA engagement assistance, we are asking you to take a short survey about your current participation in SGMA activities. All results will be anonymous, and survey respondent identities will be confidential. The final results will be part of a larger study by CSU-WATER.

The survey can be accessed by scanning the QR Code or clicking on the the link below.
